HEALTH HAZARD INFORMATION

HEALTH EFFECTS

ACUTE:

SWALLOWED: While the major ingredients have relatively low toxicity some of the minor ingredients are toxic. The product therefore must be considered harmful if swallowed particularly in large quantities. Symptoms will most likely include diarrhea, abdominal cramps and nausea. Because of the high number of ingredients symptoms may vary widely between individuals.

EYES: Dusts or spray solutions may irritate eyes.

SKIN: Not rapidly absorbed through intact skin or mucous membranes. Penetration will rapidly occur through open wounds, burned skin and areas of active dermatitis if exposed to powder or strong aqueous solutions.

INHALED: Exposure to dust or spray solution may cause acute irritation, which may worsen with increased temperature. Symptoms include nasal irritation, coughing and some chest discomfort.

FIRST AID

SWALLOWED: If swallowed and if induce vomiting. Do not induce vomiting if victim is unconscious. Contact a doctor or Poisons Information Centre.

EYES: If in eyes, hold eyelid open and irrigate for 15 minutes. See a doctor.

SKIN: Product should be washed from broken areas of skin immediately, using copious quantities of water. Wash exposed skin with soap and water for 15 minutes after use.

INHALED: Move victim to fresh air. If severe exposure has occurred see a doctor.

FIRST AID FACILITIES: No special first aid facilities are necessary.

ADVICE TO DOCTOR: Treat symptomatically.
